

General/Body with Procedures – Olympic Peninsula

[Specific to each position]

A unique opportunity to work in a small practice setting as part of the nation's largest 100% physician owned and operated radiology group. We are looking for a general/body radiologist with light interventional skills to be based at Olympic Medical Center in Port Angeles, located on the pristine Olympic Peninsula in Washington State. Procedural coverage needs include CT/US guided biopsy and drainage, lumbar puncture, paracentesis, thoracentesis, and joint aspiration and injection. The opportunity to develop additional procedures exists. No mammography is involved.

Olympic Medical Center (OMC) is a progressive, up-to-date 67 bed hospital where a medical staff of 125 offers a high standard of care. We operate a service-oriented practice and have excellent relationships with our referring providers. This is an opportunity to have access to state of the art equipment and all of the accoutrements that a well-established, innovative physician-led practice can offer, including access to 24/7 subspecialty teleradiology support and a 3D lab for advanced post processing.

Ideal work schedule: 3 weeks on and 1 week off with 1 in 4 weekend call. Evening/overnight diagnostic interpretations are covered remotely via our internal network. There is limited procedural call shared among the group.

This is a Shareholder Track position.

[General Job requirements]

Radia is looking for candidates who possess the following essential characteristics: exceptional diagnostic skills and technical competence, and a desire to work for the good of the practice. Respect across the entire spectrum of individuals with whom we interact is a must.
